

Introducing Paige Claire Winton

Christmas came a few days early at Wall Street Dairy

The next generation at Wall Street Dairy was born just a few days prior to Christmas 2014. Paige Claire Winton was welcomed into the world by her parents and Wall Street Dairy team members, Todd Jr. (Toby) and Melissa (Missy) Winton, and the rest of the Winton and Deck families on December 12.

Toby and Missy run our dairy replacement operation and they have their own string of show cattle, Centralia Holsteins. No doubt Paige will be put to work as soon as she can walk, following in the footsteps of several generations of Winton family members who came before her.

We are anxiously looking forward to seeing what 2015 will bring, and we will keep you posted as our family dairy continues to grow and evolve. We are thankful for the support and friendship that so many of you have generously shared with us, and we look forward to working with you in the New Year. We would like to thank all of you who purchased cattle from us in 2014, both privately and through various sales.

Pray for peace, both at home and abroad.
