

Heaven just became a lot more fun now that Brooks has busted through the pearly gates

Brenden, Brooks and Brooke Winton visiting Niagara Falls in August 2012

While our family and our community are mourning the untimely death of our 28 year old nephew Brooks Winton, we know that he is shaking things up in Heaven with his exuberance, his great sense of humor, his hearty laugh, and his unequalled sense of adventure.

We have many wonderful memories and stories about Brooks growing up on the family farm and eventually working at Wall Street Dairy. One of our favorite stories took place three years ago, the night before the Wall Street herd was to be classified. Brooks offered to stay in the barn that night to keep the cows clean since we scored at 7 AM the next morning. Evidently at some point during the night, he fell asleep in his lawn chair, and when he woke up, he was surrounded by a large family of skunks who had somehow entered the barn.

Brooks was a hard and dependable worker, and his nickname, "Gentle Giant," was very appropriate. He was a big and strong young man but he treated our cattle with kindness and respect. But in a pinch, he could pick up a mature cow and move her by himself with very little effort.

While we miss him tremendously, our efforts are now focused on giving his three year old twins, Brenden and Brooke, the life that they deserve. They are already showing great interest and curiosity around our cows and the calves so we are hopeful that they will carry on their Daddy's legacy.

Thanks for all of your contributions and the memories, Brooks, and rest in peace big guy.
